RED INFLUENCE WITH ACTORS CALLED SLIGHT

Robt. Montgomery Says Communists in Screen Guild Don't Have Control.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Actor Robert Montgomery told house investigators of Hollywood Reds today that there are Communists in the Screen Actors Guild but "never, under any circumstances" have they succeeded in dominating the actors.

"We have had in the Screen Guild a very militant, a very small minority, well organized, well disciplined," he said.

Montgomery was the first of four actors called to testify before the house committee on un-American activities, now in its fourth day of hearings on Communism in the film capital.

A big sigh went up from a jam-packed audience, largely feminine, when Montgomery took the stand.

He wore a brownish-gray striped suit, a white shirt and a grey pinstriped tie.

Denies Success

"How much success have the Communists had in dominating the Guild," Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator, asked him.

"Never, never under any circumstances, have they succeeded," the actor replied.

Montgomery followed two screen writers to the stand. Fred Niblo Jr., and Richard MacCaulay who both testified they believe Communistic influence exists among the writing profession in Hollywood.

A capacity crowd—waiting to hear actors Gary Cooper, Ronald Reagan, George Murphy and Montgomery—again packed the hearing room. Hundreds waited outside for a chance to get in.

Rep. Thomas (R-NJ), committee chairman, secured an extra detail of capitol police. The officers he had on hand yesterday were bruised and shoved about by a stampede of sighing women to see Robert Taylor.

Williams J. Broderick, captain of capitol police, said he had increased from 10 to 25 the number of officers detailed to duty at the hearing and "I have five others down stairs, just in case.

Barricades Set Up

Additional barricades were set up in the corridors and lobby outside the hearing room.

Niblo said he has been a scenario writer for 17 years and is a member of the Screen Writers Guild.

He told the committee he believes that Gordon Kahn, editor of the Screen-Writers' Guild magazine, is a Communist.

"But I can't prove that," Niblo added, "any more than Custer could have proved that the people who were massacreing him were Indians."

The magazine, "The Screen Writer," was described by Niblo as "a literary monthly supplement to the Daily Worker."

Cooper, Reagan, Murphy and Montgomery were expected to augment Taylor's testimony that there are plenty of things "on the pink side" in Hollywood and that Communists are active there.

To Get Hearing

The so-called "hostile witnesses," Thomas said, will have their inning next week. They include a group of writers and directors, some of whom have been labeled either as un-American or Communistic by previous witnesses.

While next week's hearings may be less interesting from the standpoint of celebrities, Thomas said, they will develop evidence of Communist spying, and will produce "complete records" on at least 79 Hollywood persons regarded by the committee as subversive.

Another member said the committee will make public evidence that a group of Hollywood personalities have been in direct communication with Soviet consular officers and have acted under specific orders from Moscow.

STRONG WINDS FAN HUGE MAINE FIRES

By The Associated Press

PORTLAND, Me., Oct. 23—Strong winds fanned huge fires at Waterboro and on Mount Desert Island out of control again today and hundreds of weary firefighters sought to check the flames at the edge of North Waterboro village.

Most of New England's other drouth-induced forest fires which have caused two deaths and more than $3,500,000 in property damage were under control, however, as thousands of firemen and volunteers continued their efforts to check the blazes completely.

Former Fire Chief Richard Carll of Waterboro said firefighters were making a stand at the edge of North Waterboro village in an effort to save the settlement of 15 houses, a church, school and store.

Waterboro and South Waterboro appeared out of danger as the wind shifted.

FILM STAR NAMES "RED" STARS. Moviedom's Robert Taylor is shown as he held the spotlight on the house un-American activities committee witness stand yesterday in Washington, D. C., and revealed some Hollywoodites as active Communist sympathizers. Taylor told the committee he supposed he would be criticized by "the left-wingers" for testifying. Rep. Nixon (R-Calif) asked if he feared "box office" repercussion and Taylor replied "I happen to believe strongly enough in the American people to think that they will go along with anyone who prefers America and the American form of government." Mrs. W. E. Miley of Marion, president of the Marion city union of King's Daughters, was elected president of the Ohio Branch of the International Order of King's Daughters and Sons at the Wednesday session here of the fifty-fourth annual state convention which concluded today at the Trinity Baptist church. The convention sessions got underway Tuesday noon.

Other officers elected this year with Mrs. Miley are: Mrs. Elizabeth Helmer of Cleveland, second vice president, Mrs. H. R. Troyer of Bowling Green, reelected secretary, and Mrs. John Faulkner of Bucyrus, trustee. Mrs. Babcock of Medina was appointed to fill the unexpired term of Mrs. Miley as trustee.

Officers serving this year and who will serve again next year are Miss Maude Tindall of Fremont, first vice president and Bible study chairman; Mrs. Martin Lindblom of Bellefontaine, treasurer; Miss Ramona Kaiser of Cincinnati, chairman young women's department; Mrs. Alvi Graham of Marysville, Ohio Indian director; Mrs. Laura S. Goodhue of Cleveland, historian, and Mrs. Ina Fisher of Westerville, Mrs. M. O. Hallock of Medina, Mrs. Helen Sieg of Richwood and Mrs. Lester Ohls of Fostoria, trustees.

Officers Installed

A consecration and installation service for all the officers was conducted this morning by Mrs. Frederic Bond of Miami, Fla., international president of the Order, convention guest. She chose as her theme for the service, "As Thou Goest, I Will Open Up the Way Step by Step."

The closing session this morning opened with an organ prelude by Mrs. Virgil Curl and devotions by Dr. V. E. Busler, pastor of Epworth Methodist church. Mrs. French Crow of Oakland, Calif., a past Ohio state president, spoke briefly of her work in King's Daughters in California. Mrs. Bond outlined the plans for the international convention which is to be held April 4-8, 1948, in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Bond was the principal speaker at the Wednesday night session. Speaking on the "History of the Order," she told of what the order should mean to the King's Daughters members as women, Christians and mothers.

In honor of Mrs. Bond, who was the convention guest, a reception and tea was held in the social rooms of Trinity Baptist church following the Wednesday night session. Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. Frederick G. Spieker of Toledo, outgoing state president, and Mrs. W. E. Miley, newly-elected state president. The In-As-Much and Good Cheer circles were in charge of arrangements.

Morning Session

The morning session yesterday was opened with a hymn by the group followed by devotions by Mrs. A. G. Moore of Toledo. A regular business session followed and reports were given of the Sophie Waldron fund by Miss Tindall of Fremont, state first vice president and Bible study chairman, and of the Rock Ledge Inn by Mrs. Troyer of Bowling Green, state secretary.

A Maplecrest chapter luncheon was held at noon at Wesley Methodist church, presided over by Mrs. Harold Bishop of Marysville, president of the Maplecrest chapter.

At the afternoon session, devotions were conducted by Mrs. Helmer of Cleveland, a report of the credential committee was given by Mrs. Forest Flockencier, and Mrs. Miley gave the Maplecrest chairman report.

The evening program opened with an organ solo by Mrs. Eugene H. Moore, followed by devotions conducted by Rev. J. B. Holloway, pastor of Trinity church. He chose as his subject "The King's Highway." Two organ and piano duos were given by Mrs. O. D. Anderson and Mrs. Eliza Williams, and Mrs. George Griffiths, accompanied by Mrs. Williams, sang four vocal selections. Rev. Holloway closed the program with the benediction.

A dinner for Mrs. Bond, the executive board and the city and county union presidents at the First Presbyterian church preceded the evening program.

SCHOOL OF RELIGION OPENS AT EPWORTH

Mount Union College President Is First Speaker.

First sessions of the School of Religion and Life for Epworth Methodist church and Methodist churches of Marion county were held at Epworth church Wednesday night. Following classes which composed the first part of the school, Dr. Charles B. Ketcham, president of Mount Union college at Alliance, spoke for the forum hour. His subject was "Religion and Life." The school will continue four succeeding Wednesday nights, and registration will be open yet next Wednesday night, it was announced. Speaker then will be Dr. Frank D. Slutz of Dayton, lecturer and educator, whose topic will be "Revitalizing Christian Education."

To open his address, Dr. Ketcham traced the history of civilization and the history of Christian education, and quoted from another source the thought that "We get progress when mankind runs against a problem and solves it." He continued, "For progress, we must have creative leadership with a common vision. Education and religion must be coordinated and must cooperate. We must have good will sharpened by good education. Education can give us the atomic bomb, but unless we have something to go along with this so as to control its power, it is of no creative use. Christ must be brought into the picture."

COAL "SHORTAGES" AIRED BY OFFICIALS

By International News Service

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Government and industry officials conferred today on distribution bottlenecks threatening the paradox of coal "shortages" amidst near-record production.

The parley was called by Interior Secretary J. A. Krug and included producers, shippers and mine union representatives.

Indications are that Krug will seek industry-compliance with a voluntary system of controls to iron out present difficulties.

The nation's 1947 coal output is expected to surpass 600 million tons, a figure that should be ample for all domestic needs and export requirements of approximately 40 million tons.

However, the railroad car shortage, inadequate dock facilities for overseas shipments, and other factors have blocked equitable distribution of this output.

Retail dealers have flooded the interior department and congressmen with complaints on their inability to get adequate coal supplies and protesting against the large export shipments.

Both government and industry representatives assert, however, that the U. S. is mining enough coal to meet export needs without hardship on domestic consumers.

The problem is one of distribution and the government no longer has the wartime controls which enabled it to allocate coal to so-called "shortage" areas.

"ROOSEVELT FEARED WAR COMING IN '38"

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Louis A. Johnson, former assistant secretary of war, said today that he and President Roosevelt knew as early as 1938 "that war was coming and we could not stay out of it."

Johnson, who served as assistant secretary from 1937 until 1940, testified before the senate war investigating committee which is trying to learn why a detailed industrial mobilization plan was discarded after Pearl Harbor.

At first Johnson asked that his account of pre-war moves in connection with the late president be "off the record," but Chairman Brewster (R-Maine) said the testimony should be open to the public.

Johnson said that his efforts to prepare this country for war were blocked by two former cabinet members—former Secretary of Labor Perkins and former Secretary of War Woodring—and Gen. Somervell, wartime chief of the Army's supply service.

Johnson said that a detailed industrial mobilization plan "was ditched by brass hats because it did not suit the program of General Somervell."

He also said that Secretary of Defense Forrestal had made "incorrect" and "inexact" statements about the reason for shelving the program.

At one time, Johnson testified, Somervell "even planned to get rid of General Marshall."

He referred to George Marshall, then army chief of staff and the now secretary of state.

CABINET MEETS WITH TRUMAN

Surprise Session Precedes Aid to Europe Talks with Congressmen.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—President Truman summoned his cabinet into session this morning, presumably to lay the groundwork for his afternoon conference with congressional leaders on means of providing quick help for dollar-short nations of western Europe.

Secretary of Agriculture Anderson, the first cabinet member to arrive at the White House, told reporters he did not know why the cabinet had been summoned a day ahead of its usual Friday meeting.

The cabinet session began a busy day for Mr. Truman, since his meeting with congress leaders was set for 2:30 p. m. with a news conference to follow at 3:30 p. m. His talk with reporters was scheduled a half-hour ahead of the time such conferences take place when they are held in the afternoon.

High government officials indicated the Chief Executive had two alternative courses to follow at the extraordinary White House conference set for 2:30 p. m.:

▶He could suggest a special session of congress in December to appropriate funds to tide over such hard pressed nations as France and Italy until next year's regular session has time to act on the long-range Marshall plan for European recovery.

▶Or he could propose that the government proceed to use at once some funds not originally intended for European assistance but which might legally be diverted to that purpose.

CCC Funds Eyed

In this connection it was learned that lawyers of the state, agriculture and treasury departments had decided informally this week that commodity credit corporation resources might be used on a short term basis to send food to Europe.

The commodity credit corporation is the government's farm price support agency and in that role buys and sells agricultural products.

There was no definite advance indication as to which course, if either, the President actually would recommend.

Some persons familiar with his views said Mr. Truman has seemed to favor the idea of a special session but has been concerned over what they said he regards as political difficulties in the way. Congressional leaders generally have not been too enthusiastic about the idea in the past although some have said such a call seemed almost inevitable.

On the other hand, commodity credit corporation officials have been described as reluctant to have their resources used for European aid purposes since they were not originally so intended.

CALL OFF ALL ACTIVITY UNTIL 11 A.M. MONDAY

Three Marion Men Jailed as Aftermath of Trouble Yesterday.

Special to The Star

GALION, Oct. 23—A midnight truce announced by a National Guard staff officer ended nearly 12 hours of disorder in Galion yesterday as violence again flared in the nine week old strike at the North Electric Company.

An estimated 375 employes were held virtual prisoners at the plant nine hours after quitting time before the UAW-CIO, company officials and Col. P. T. Graham in an emergency meeting in city hall arrived at an agreement to cease all activity until 11 a. m. Monday. Another meeting has been called at the Galion city hall at that hour in an effort to reach a basis for settlement.

The truce closed the plant and effected a withdrawal of union sympathizers who had massed at the plant yesterday in an ugly mood. No effort will be made by the company to resume operations until after next Monday.

During and preceding the nine hour siege, two company employes were seized and the truck they were driving taken away from them. The plant was stoned. Three persons inside were removed from the plant on stretchers and taken to the hospital. Six arrests were made. Fire apparatus was called to the plant. Conferences were held continuously all evening by city officials fearing serious violence. The Galion mayor sought aid from Governor Herbert.

Half of Force Back

The Galion company reopened two weeks ago resuming production of automatic telephone equipment with approximately half of its 750 employes back to work. Plants at Mt. Gilead and Kenton continued to operate the former on approximately half time production schedule and the latter on full time until violence struck at Kenton yesterday, closing the plant.

The Kenton violence was followed by the siege of the main plant at Galion late yesterday by several hundred union sympathizers including UAW personnel said to be from Toledo and other union headquarters.

Marion Men Held

Three Marion men have been arrested for their part in yesterday's skirmishing. They were picked up by the state highway patrol yesterday afternoon after two company employes had been seized and a company truck taken earlier in the day.

Held in Marion city prison on charges of operating a vehicle without the owner's consent are Richard C. Gibson, 28, of 392 Owens street, James A. Wilson, 20, of 361 Clinton street, and Walter Edward Foust, 30, of near Marion. North Electric company officials signed the affidavits after one of the employes identified one of the men.

Richard Lyons, 25, and Jack Mathias, 23, told police they were driving a company pickup truck enroute from the plant warehouse to the main plant at 8:30 a. m. when they were forced to the curb by three men in a car. Two of the men they said, were brandishing bottles.

After being forced out of the truck and into the car, the boys were driven out of the city about four miles and were held at the Midway filling station located on route 30-S at the junction with route 181. They were released after being held about two hours. The men were unharmed but threatened by their abductors.

Crowd Gathers

Early in the afternoon, the six pickets at each of the three main gates of the Galion plant were augmented by a crowd estimated at more than 75 persons, said by police to be "strangers".

At 4:30 p.m. quitting time, the crowd milling in the streets across from the main gate and about the plant had increased to several hundred persons. Police and sheriff's officers on the scene hastily marked off the 500 foot zone inside of which only pickets are allowed to remain according to terms of the injunction granted the company.

Special police officers and additional deputies swelled the total of law enforcement men to approximately 50 as a climax seemed to be imminent. Police and sheriff's cars cruised through the streets bordering the plant.

The milling crowd, comprising UAW members, company employes not back at work and curious townspeople engaged in noisy catcalling and argument in clusters along the street before the plant,

American Diary

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK—DAN DE LUCE, back from a long look behind the 'Iron Curtain,' finds American prestige still is high in European countries within the Soviet sphere.

"Two years aren't enough for a man to learn to shut his mind completely," said De Luce, veteran Associated Press foreign correspondent.

"In any sort of open competition for the friendship of these people, the odds would be five-to-one in our favor—except in Yugoslavia."

Hal Boyle

De Luce returned this week from a four-month tour through Poland, Czechoslovakia, Hungary, Yugoslavia and Greece—countries that have been part of his news beat since 1939. He talked to hundreds of people in all classes of life, and reached this conclusion:

"We hold the top cards, and if we play them properly there is no reason for alarm or despondency. We still represent in the minds of most people throughout the world the place where human freedom has the best chance to endure.

"The American citizen acts, thinks and moves about more freely than the citizen of any other country wherever he goes."

Just as the American civilian soldier was our best ambassador during the war, De Luce believes now that our best diplomat in these countries is the peacetime American visitor. Therefore he thinks it important that they be kept open to American travel.

"That gives the people of these lands a chance to see that we aren't Wall Street devils who ride over starving children in our limousines—as their controlled press would have them believe," he said.

Wherever he traveled he found among the people a great interest in American affairs and an admiration for her production techniques. One Russian engineer joked:

"We'd like to come over and study how you do it."

De Luce said the Soviet campaign to convince the satellite people within her sphere that the United States was a power-hungry nation of war-mongers was counterbalanced by their realization it was Russia herself who had enlarged her borders at the expense of European neighbors.

Ties With U.S.

"We have more blood tied with these countries than the Soviet Union," he pointed out. "There are more Yugoslavs in San Pedro, Calif., than there are in Moscow."

De Luce's views are those of a trained, impartial observer, skilled in political reporting.

He is a six-foot-three-inch sandy-haired writer known among his fellow correspondents for daring war exploits and his insistence on getting his facts first hand. He won a Pulitzer prize in 1944 for his feat of crossing the Adriatic the year before and getting the first eye-witness stories on Yugoslavia's Partisan fighters.

I asked him what struck him most about America on his return.

"The fact that nine-tenths of our people seem to live as well or better than the top 10 per cent of Europeans," he said.

PRISON INMATE SWALLOWS 3½ POUNDS OF METAL

By The Associated Press

LANSING, Kas., Oct. 23—Three and one-half pounds of metal—including two complete safety razors without blades—was the yield of an operation on the stomach of an inmate of the Kansas state prison.

In addition to the razors, five metal washers, 401 nails of assorted sizes, a three-inch screw, a couple two-inch stove bolts, a two-inch nut, a large brass washer, 11 thumb tacks, a quarter inch screw and 60 small metal objects including paper clips and safety pins were listed by Warden H. Hudspeth in the recovery.

Prison officials said the man, identified as James S. Payne, serving a one to five year sentence for arson, gave no reason for consuming the objects.

Your Good Health

By DR. HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

A Cancer Affecting Men

It is unfortunate that cancer is a silent disease. Many other deadly disorders betray themselves almost at once in the symptoms of illness and discomfort they cause, but not cancer. It works so stealthily, particularly in certain areas of the body, that its victims is often unrecognizable long before they are aware of its presence.

That is why doctors say that periodic and thorough health examinations are the best insurance against cancer. Frequent, careful check-ups give us almost our only opportunity for early discovery of cancer in its curable stages.

Cancer of the prostate in men is one of the most serious forms of this most treacherous of all diseases. Quite often it gives no warning signs at all until after it has progressed to such a degree that removal by operation is no longer possible.

Within the last few years, however, it has been found that treatment with extracts from the female sex glands will prolong the life of men with far-advanced cancer of the prostate. These extracts, known as estrogens will frequently, when used with other measures, give such patients an additional three years of life. And they make this life worthwhile by relieving the severe pain which always accompanies cancer in its later stages.

In some cases, the cancer may have grown to such an extent that there is blocking of the outlet of the bladder. In such cases, operation through an instrument known as a cystoscope, which can be passed into the bladder, for removal of the prostate tissue is performed.

Pain in prostate cancer may also be relieved by operation for removal of the sex glands. Vitamins and preparations for increasing the amount of coloring of the blood, and injections of blood into a vein are given when they are indicated.

Treatment with the sulfonamide products and penicillin helps to overcome infection, and such treatment also is of aid in reducing pain.

When pain recurs after removal of the sex glands, the estrogens are given in the smallest effective doses, and the amount is increased as needed.

Additional relief from pain is obtained in three out of five patients by X-ray treatments of the pituitary gland which is located at the base of the brain.

In cancer, what is known as metastasis or spreading may occur. This means that cells are carried by the blood to other parts of the body where they locate and grow. X-ray treatment of these areas where metastasis has occurred also may be helpful.

In some few instances, unfortunately, none of these measures seemed to be helpful. In fact, they not only do not stop the growth of the cancer but even stimulate it.

Every man of middle age or beyond should be alert to the dangers of this form of cancer. Since the symptoms which call attention to it come so late, he should not hesitate to have periodic examinations made for the special purpose of discovering whether or not changes which indicate the presence of a tumor growth are occurring in the prostate gland. If such examinations were the rule rather than the exception many lives could be saved every year.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

B. A.: What could be done to relieve the itch caused by wool?

Answer: It is likely that in order to eliminate this disorder it will be necessary for you to avoid contact with the wool. There are protective ointments which have been employed to protect the skin in persons who are sensiive to material with which they work. However, it is not certain that the use of such ointment would completely prevent the difficulty you are having.

A skin specialist should be consulted concerning this matter.

"Communist" Films

THREE motion pictures, "The North Star," "Mission to Moscow" and "Song of Russia," keep bobbing up in news of the house committee hearing on un-American activities.

The first was a glossy, Hollywood print of Russian village life which was disrupted when bestial Nazis seized the community. The second, a terrific financial flop, was a naive attempt to depict a tough American businessman-diplomat among the Moscow Tovarisches. The third was Tchaikowski music, plus boy-meets-girl, plus war. Two of the films were fair entertainment; the third was downright inept.

There may or may not be a cell of practicing Communists in Hollywood. But if these films are samples of the best they can do, either Hollywood's fellow travelers are bunglers on a very effective red filter is used on movie cameras out there.

Severing Red Ties

BRAZIL and Chile have severed diplomatic relations with Russia, joining Paraguay in that status. The action is likely to be the start of a new program of repressive measures against Communists throughout South America.

Brazil's action was brought about by a Russian publication's recent insulting reference to President Dutra, which was contained in an article no less insulting to President Truman. However, the underlying cause is that Brazil's Communists are an increasingly troublesome element, as they are in most of the other South American republics.

Severance of diplomatic relations and outlawing of Communist parties are only stop-gap measures. It's a truism that poverty breeds communism. Brazil's 600,000 Communists, comprising the largest such group in the Western Hemisphere, no longer technically are a party, but the causes from which they originally drew their strength haven't been removed. Many a South American subsists on poorer fare than the average German.

South American communism has little or no relation to the Moscow brand. It is a manifestation of poverty. Communism, anarchy, unrest caused by hunger—call it what you will—South America will have it as long as it has excessive poverty.

A 1947 Paul Revere

SENATOR TAYLOR, who gave an impromptu concert with banjo accompaniment on the capitol steps when he first came to Washington, is going to make a cross-country trip in the interests of peace. The newsworthy features of it are (A) that he will ride horseback and (B) that he will speak for a foreign policy along the lines proposed by Henry A. Wallace.

The senator said he may be branded as a Red and it's possible that he will be. But the odds are against his being a Communist. He's a senator with ideas on foreign policy at variance with those of the chief of his party. Being an extrovert and, what's more, being from Idaho, he sits on a horse well and recalls all that publicity Paul Revere got by riding a horse. He's making a bid for some of the same.

Gridiron Goliath

THE big football news from the west coast is that Pacific Lutheran college has a 284-pound center. His opponents say he is different from most king-size gridders in that he is fast and a first-rate all-round player. An able 284-pound opponent presents opposing players with a real problem, for it's truer in football than in most sports that a good big man can best a good little man.

Football is fortunate in that it has never suffered to the extent that basketball has from players endowed with outstanding physical advantages. Ambulant beanpoles disguised as basketball players at times have made a farce of the game, in addition to instilling inferiority complexes in shrimps a mere six feet tall.

Toy Juggernauts

AMONG the new Christmas toys is a jet-propelled plane powered by a seltzer bottle capsule. There also is news that Westinghouse engineers have designed tiny racing cars, powered by carbon dioxide capsules, for their noon-hour recreation. These tiny juggernauts have achieved speeds of 131 miles an hour.

It isn't difficult to see that the household hazards inherent in old-fashioned toys are as nothing compared to what's coming. A toy truck left on a landing can be sidestepped. The miniature electric train moves at a leisurely rate on a predictable course. Even the lethal combinations in junior's chemistry set comprise no serious hazard.

But when miniature jet-planes begin hurtling around living rooms and tiny racing cars emitting blasts of gas achieve the speed of projectiles, look out! Life will be real, life will be earnest around the Christmas tree.

Scanning the Record

By George E. Sokolsky

The Small Business Man—He Needs No Chart.

WE were walking along Allen street, which is where old brass, old silver, old anything can be bought for any price. The store-fronts are shabby; the windows crusted with years of dust and grime; the owners, shabby merchants in old clothes, their fingers discolored by the tarnish of the metals that are their wares.

My friend stopped before one such shop and tried to peer through the glass.

"You want something?" a bearded, collarless man had joined us asked.

"If you have it it, I'd like a large Maccabean lamp. These small ones are too small," my friend replied.

"Maybe in back there is a large one. Maybe sometime I can find one. Today, I don't want to look," the merchant said cheerfully.

"Don't you care whether you sell or not?" my friend asked.

"Not particularly. I like to sell enough wares to pay my rent and eat. The rest I like to keep in goods. Goods is sure; dollars maybe are good, maybe, they ain't. The dollars are just as good when they are in wares in this store as when they lie in a bank. Dollars I don't have; goods I got plenty." The merchant laid down his economic creed.

My friend asked: "Suppose there's an inflation?"

Holds to His Formula

"That's nothing. If it's inflation, my goods are still goods. If it's a depression, the goods are still goods. So I pay less for rent and less for food and less for anything. So I sell my wares a little less. Inflation—I sell for more; depression I sell for less. But goods is goods." The merchant made everything clear.

"Mister," my friend asked, "don't you ever borrow from a bank?"

The merchant laughed, "From a bank I should borrow? I should get a headache? I should have to sell my goods when I need to pay the bank? I should be forced? Like this, you buy, O.K. You don't buy, also O. K. The goods are mine. What I have is mine. I have no partners. That is good business. Anybody can understand that who knows what two plus two is. But maybe lots of people don't know the answer."

So we walked along old Allen street, where we passed old and dirty stores, where men traded as for centuries they had in bazaars and marts and in a thousand stores and shops. These little people never went to colleges and they never read the great economists nor could they understand the graphs and charts that are issued with such assurance by thousands of bureaus and statistical associations.

They Understand

But they understand the fundamentals of economics. They understand almost instinctively what is sound business and sound living. My friend said to me:

"In business, there is a residue of experience for which all book learning is no substitute. You sometimes wonder that I or one of my associates looks at a man who comes along with a perfectly sound proposition and we turn him down. The point is that there is one thing wrong with his proposition and that is the man himself. Out of our accumulated experience, a reflex, almost as strong as an instinct, says, 'Don't do business with that man.'

"It is like that with this simple merchant. He has a tremendous life experience, a greater personal experience than any economics professor, than most government officials, than many bankers. That experience comes from handling goods and handling people, from buying and selling, from trying to make a sufficient profit to keep alive and to improve himself. He is the typical small business man that builds nations.

"He knows when times are good or bad. Nobody needs to tell him. He needs no charts. He needs no facts. He smells out what is to come as an animal might an enemy in the woods. He knows when to run to cover; He knows when to expand. He knows when to cut his losses. He does not know why he knows nor even that he knows. He just tends to his own business.

'Every great business in the world was built by such people. They are the salt of the earth—and the trouble is that we too often forget them."

Will She Make Him Trim His Beard?

The International Institute of Artists and Photographers is seeking a wife for Uncle Sam.

As if the old boy didn't have dependents enough already. . . .

The cartoonists don't know what they're letting themselves in for: Uncle Sam's traditional regalia has been good for a century and a half, but Mama America is going to have a new outfit every time the hemline fluctuates.

Incidentally, is there any truth in the report that the cartoonist who first designated Russia as a grizzly is being picketed by the local Brotherhood of Bears and Bruins?

The move to provide Uncle Sam with a wife will doubtless meet with his eventual approval. But it's bound to seem strange at first, after 150 years of bachelorhood.

Still, marriage is a splendid institution, as institutions go. He's really got nothing to worry about until they start drawing her in those striped pants.

Installment Selling

By Raymond Moley

ON Nov. 1 another important wartime restriction on free enterprise goes overboard—prohibition of installment selling and buying. This restriction was imposed by Regulation W of the board of governors of the federal reserve system, under authority of a presidential order which, in turn, was issued under authority of the old trading with the enemy act. In the main, the measure was part of the wartime anti-inflation program.

Congress is responsible for removal of Regulation W, although the regulation itself was not a law but an administrative act made under the authority of law. Congress passed a joint resolution on Aug. 8, expressing its opinion that the regulation should be terminated on Nov. 1. President Truman, reluctantly, it seemed, complied with this expression of congress. So whatever happens is the responsibility of congress.

Opposition Arguments

Opinions vary as to the economic wisdom of this move. A number of people will doubt now, as they did in the roaring 20's, the soundness of installment selling. Their argument at the moment is that it is inflationary, that the pressure for available goods is already sufficiently stimulating to production and that the effect of additional credit will raise prices further. The more basis argument, which was offered in the 20's, is that installment selling leads to over-selling, to undue expansion of the productive plant and that, when bad times come, the volume of credit outstanding deepens the depression.

It is doubtful, however, whether installment selling contributed to or deepened the depression of the early 30's. The national volume of production in 1929 was about $100,000,000,000. All direct installment sales and all installment cash loans were little more than $3,000,000,000. Then, after the depression set in, installment sales plus cash loans went down to $1,500,000,000 in 1932. From that time to 1939 the figure went up to $4,500,000,000.

From the Record

Therefore, if installment selling was the straw that broke the camel's back, it was a very small straw indeed. A look backward at the camel's back in those years reveals weaknesses vastly more important than commercial credit. Farm loans were close to $10,000,000,000, and urban real estate debt was nearly four times as much.

No one suggests that perishable goods should be bought on long-time "tick." And those who buy luxuries on credit cannot be saved in any event. The substantial arguments for consumer credit on durable goods remain. A good proportion of goods sold on credit enlarge the earning power of the buyer. Automobiles, for the most part, are necessary to wage earners. Household equipment, like houses themselves, should be budgeted over the years.

No one denies that credit is a sound tool for prudent people. It is, of course, a danger to imprudent people. But so is spending in every other form. And law cannot be shaped wholly to save fools from their folly. The removal of Regulation V is an expression of confidence in American common sense.

Arabian Oil

Behind the Arab threat of revolt against the United Nations proposal to partition Palestine looms a group of Near East states containing between 30 and 40 million people and a large share of the world's oil.

The seven leading Arab states which in 1945 formed the common front of the Arab League cover a vast region extending north, south, and east of Palestine, reports National Geographic Society. They are Saudi Arabia, Egypt, Iraq, Trans-Jordan, Syria, Lebanon and Yemen.

These Arab nations spread a shifting yet remarkably uniform panorama of life in an area nearly 150 times the size of Palestine. Except in a few favored places, huge expanses of sandy or rocky desert—dotted with sun-dried brick settlements or clusters of goats'-hair tents—unroll from western Egypt to eastern Iraq.

Fifty-Fifty?

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Saturday, Oct. 23, 1937.

Funeral services were being arranged for George Horace Lorimer, 69, editor of the Saturday Evening Post, whose death occurred the previous night at his suburban home in Philadelphia.

Marion county's corn husking laurels went to Earl Speece, 35-year-old farmer of near Kirkpatrick, in the standing corn division and Ralph Augenstein, 28, of near Radnor, in the shock corn contest. It was the sixth straight victory for Speece and the fifth in six years of competition for Augenstein.

Miss Elizabeth Gardner and Robert C. Owens were married at the home of the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. Warren C. Sawyer of White Oaks Farm.

A former Marion man, Dr. Merrit K. Marshall, was credited with averting a tragedy in a Springfield hospital when he disarmed a man who had fired five pistol shots at his wife, a patient in the hospital, and held the man until police came. Dr. Marshall, an interne at the hospital at that time, is now a Marion physician.

Eight hundred persons attended dedication of the Mt. Gilead post-office in a ceremony held at the First Presbyterian church at that place. Congressman Brooks Fletcher of Marion was the speaker.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

It was Sunday, Oct. 23, 1927.

Patrick Kelly, 75, former Marion county sheriff, died at his home on East Church street.

Warren Meister of Hornell, N. Y. was a week-end visitor at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Meister of Walnut street.

Mrs. Frank Corbin and daughters, Joan and Polly Ann of Canton, were visitors at the home of Mrs. Corbin's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Smith of South High street.

Dr. and Mrs. O. M. Young of East Church street left for Detroit to attend a meeting of the American Dental association.

Ralph Hinklin, student at Ohio State university, was a weekend guest of his father, Dr. W. H. Hinklin of East Church street.

The Marion Eagles baseball team closed the season by losing to Galion at Lincoln park 4-2. Good pitched for Marion and E. Stull for Galion.

Bad Man of the Balkans

U. S. Wonders About Tito's Treaties.

YUGOSLAVIA'S alleged interference in the affairs of Chile and the severance of diplomatic relations between the two countries brings to attention two treaties between Russia and Yugoslavia that American officials often wonder about.

The first was concluded in Moscow in April 1945, before V-E day. Yet Marshal Tito, alias Josip Broz, Russian-trained Communist, traveled to Moscow in his capacity as head of the Yugoslav army and signed a 20-year treaty of friendship. The election that ousted King Peter II and made Tito premier wasn't held until the following November.

Tito went to Moscow for a second treaty in June, 1946. According to the Moscow papers, this one provided that Soviet Russia would rebuild Yugoslavia's war industries and equip its armies—a precedent for what is being done by the United States in Greece and Turkey.

The only difference is that American aid to Greece and Turkey is in the open—$100,000,000 for military aid to Turkey, $150,000,000 for Greece. No one knows how much Soviet Russia is pouring into Yugoslavia. All that's known is that whatever the amount it is making Marshal Tito the bad man of the Balkans.

He has an army and police force estimated at 600,000, with 1,000 airplanes. In his relations with the United States, Tito has blown first hot, then cold. There is a two-and-a-half year record of gratuitous insults that have worn U. S. diplomatic nerves raw.

In all fairness, the United States record is far from perfect. The late Fiorello LaGuardia promised in broadcasts to Italy during the war that Trieste and Venezia Giulia would remain Italian, which made the "Jugs," as they are known by the G. I's at Trieste, good and sore. U. S. military government officials in Germany armed Yugoslav guards in displaced person camps, which apparently hatched a plot to overthrow Tito with something called the Royal Yugoslav Army. There also has been interminable delay in screening and repatriating 70,000 Yugoslav nationals still held in British and American zones in Germany and Austria.

War and Pestilence

Cholera Breaks Out in Middle East.

DISEASE has been the traditional partner of war—the influenza epidemic of World War I, the typhus epidemic in Europe during World War II. Wartime movements of armies and civilian population create the ideal conditions for the spread of pestilence.

Despite the unprecedented displacement of populations during and since World War II, no major epidemic has yet occurred. There is beginning to be alarm, however, about a cholera epidemic in the Middle East. The disease already has appeared in Egypt.

Though quarantine experts of the World Health Organization now in session in Geneva say there is little danger of cholera spreading to Europe, history shows that Europe has escaped only one of eight major outbreaks of the disease during the last 120 years. That was the epidemic of 1919. At least four of the cholera outbreaks spread to America.

Chief breeding-place of cholera is the Punjab region of India, where the present epidemic originated. From there, it has usually spread westward by two routes—by sea to Egypt and to the Mediterranean, or overland to central Asia, Russia, and thence to central Europe.

Most serious epidemic in recent times occurred in 1883-87. It took 250,000 lives in Europe, 50,000 in America. The last previous dangerous outbreak in Europe occurred in 1891, after appearing in India only a few months previously.

During and after World War I, typhus killed more than 3,000,000 persons in eastern Europe. In 1918-19, the worldwide epidemic of influenza killed more people than all the hostilities in four years.

Have a Pretzel

By Truman Twill

Our columnar heart is torn out by a letter from the National Pretzel Bakers Institute. Faithful readers may remember they read some sneers and snifts here about a puclicity picture of a cutie lolling in a bathtubful of pretzels. Our observation was that the pretzel people had picked a darned poor way to sell their product and we'd stay away from pretzels for a long time to come.

That stung the Pretzel Bakers to the quick. Their letter comes right to the point: We don't care what you say about our publicity gags, but please don't take it out on our product. All right, boys, unbend. We won't. What we meant was that we'd stay away from pretzels until we could be sure all the pretzels that cutie had lolled on in the bathtub had been disposed of. By this time, no doubt, we're safe.

We've had the same misgivings about oranges, apples, peaches, plums, cranberries, cantaloupes, shock absorbers, anti-friction bearings, books, roasting ears, potatoes, gooseberries and breakfast food, all of which have been lolled on by cuties for publicity purposes at one time or another. It's this way: We don't want our stuff lolled on by cuties. We have nothing against cuties, understand, they can loll all they want to on us, but we don't want them lolling on the stuff we buy, especially edibles.

"We certainly don't want you to cease eating this very fine and wholesome product because someone had what they thought was a very bright idea," declare the Pretzel Bakers—and as we said before, boys, unbend. We've never refused a pretzel yet, except for a few weeks when we couldn't be sure about who'd been sitting on 'em. We can say without many reservations that we're one of your best customers.

Years ago we came to grips with reality in the pretzel situation and decided that what was worth eating was worth eating a lot of. We were one of the first customers of the pretzel makers to pile up pretzels on our fingers, the way street vendors used to pile them up on sticks. We discovered that by judicious arranging of pretzels we could get up to 25 on the five fingers of one hand—enough to keep us busy for a half hour. Just thought we'd mention this so the Pretzel Bakers wouldn't lose any sleep. That cutie-in-the-bathtub business (they admit it wasn't such a hot idea) didn't hurt The Product permanently. It just made some of us finicky folks queasy, like a lot of the nonsense that publicity agents think up to call attention to their client's stuff.

We repeat, for the benefit of the Pretzel Bakers, all other manufacturers of edibles and manufacturers in general—we don't want our stuff sat on by cuties before we buy it. If we think sitting on it might improve it, we'll sit on it ourself.

In the old days, warship interiors were red so the blood wouldn't show.

Wholesale trade in the United States decreased 17 per cent between 1929 and 1939.

Byrnes Says Russia Troublesome Before Death of Roosevelt

This is a serialization of James F. Byrnes' "Speaking Frankly" ... of fifteen chapters of the book published Oct. 15, 1947, by Harper & Brothers. Copyright, 1947, by James F. Byrnes Foundation (A Charitable Trust).

By JAMES F. BYRNES

ON MARCH 11, the Allied commander-in-chief in Italy, Field Marshal Alexander, learned through the office of strategic services that General Kesselring and several German staff officers were willing to meet in Switzerland to discuss the surrender of the German army in Italy. The combined chiefs of staff approved Alexander's plan to send his deputy chief of staff to Bern but instructed him to wait until the Soviet government was informed. When Ambassador Harriman gave this information to Mr. Molotov, the latter declared that the Soviet government wished to take part in any such discussions and would send three Red army officers. Thereupon, the combined chiefs of staff informed the Soviet government that nothing would be done at Bern except to arrange for a meeting at Allied headquarters in Caserta, Italy, where the Soviet representatives would be welcome. The directive also instructed that it be made clear to the Soviet government that, should the Germans offer to surrender, Alexander as supreme commander on that front, would conduct the negotiations and make the necessary decisions.

The Soviet government replied that inasmuch as their officers could not participate in the discussions they would not be sent to Caserta. The message "insisted" that the negotiations be stopped.

A few days later Stalin sent a message to President Roosevelt stating that if the same situation had been presented on the Russian front he would not have objected to the participation of British and American representatives in the discussions. He recognized, he said, the great importance of the negotiation that had taken place because it affected the military situation on the eastern front.

Roosevelt Offended

President Roosevelt replied that no negotiations had taken place and assured Stalin that he would be kept fully informed. The next message from the Soviet leader was the one that deeply offended Mr. Roosevelt.

Stalin referred to the statement that no negotiations had taken place and asserted that it was evident the president had not been advised by his own military leaders. Stalin said the information given him by his Red army advisers showed that negotiations had been completed and that, as a result of them, Kesselring was going to open up the German front to permit the American army to advance. In return for this military assistance, Stalin said, the United States and Britain had agreed to secure easier peace terms for Germany. In accordance with this agreement Stalin charged, the Germans already had moved three divisions from the Italian front to the Russian front, and the American army had been permitted to advance in Germany.

Holds His Temper

Despite his personal reaction to this message, President Roosevelt managed to write a dignified reply. The movement of the three German divisions from the Italian to the Russian fronts, the president pointed out, had begun several weeks before the information regarding the desire of the Germans to negotiate had even reached Field Marshal Alexander and therefore the negotiations could not have been responsible in any way for the troop transfer. Stalin would have to believe him to be honest and truthful, the president declared. General Eisenhower would not have entered into any negotiations without informing him. No negotiations such as Stalin described had taken place, and from the receipt of the first message from the Germans, instructions had been issued to keep the Soviet authorities fully informed.

In the last paragraph of his message, the President gave vent to some of his feelings.

Feelings Made Know

He deeply resented, he said, the "vile misrepresentation" of Stalin's informers which reflected upon the president of the United States and his trusted subordinates, and indicated a belief that Stalin's informants wished to destroy the friendly relations between the two countries. He thought it would be a tragedy if, just as victory for the Allies seemed assured, such misrepresentations should disturb the unity that had existed and that was necessary for complete victory.

To this message Stalin replied that he did not question the president's honesty or truthfulness but repeated his belief that he had received accurate information from his Red army advisers. He had reason to regard them as accurate, he said, because only a short time earlier General Marshall and the general of the British army had been kind enough to send word to the Russian commanding general that the Germans were concentrating at a certain point in preparation for attack upon the Russian lines. The Russian officers, however, knew that the information was wrong and that the German drive was to take place at another point. The Red army had concentrated its forces at the place it thought best and had stopped the German

While here Mrs. Boycheff was the guest of Mrs. H. E. Webster of South Vine street, who with her mother, assisted her in becoming accustomed to American ways.

Mrs. Boycheff spoke before assemblies at Harding High Wednesday morning in which she emphasized to the pupils appreciation for America and the needs for protecting it with their wills and intellect and at the same time being of service internationally.

"Forever Amber" Placed On Catholic Banned List

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Oct. 23—The film, "Forever Amber," was condemned by the Legion of Decency today as "a glorification of immorality and licentiousness" and Catholics were told by Francis Cardinal Spellman they could not see it with a "safe conscience."

The Cardinal, in a letter to all pastors in the New York archdiocese, to be read at all masses Sunday, called attention to the action of the Legion in placing the much-ballyhooed film in its "condemned" classification and said: "Accordingly I advise that Catholics may not see this production with a safe conscience."

Officials of 20th Century Fox Co., producers of the film, said they had no immediate comment.

PREMIER OF FRANCE SEES DUAL THREAT

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 22—Premier Paul Ramadier said today his newly streamlined cabinet had found it necessary to consult parliament concerning the "danger to the republic"—which he said was inherent in the Communist and De Gaullist ideologies.

The government yesterday called the parliament to a session starting next Tuesday, though it had not been scheduled to end its summer vacation until Nov. 13.

Ramadier told a news conference today the political "climate of France, which has suffered too long,' is charged with electricity. Nerves are on edge."

In this situation, he said, labor movements are "being transformed into political movements." He added, "the objective of these movements is the collapse of French authority and the halting of French production."

Liquor, Poultry Plans Weighed by Luckman

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—The Citizens Food committee today faced decisions on whether to call off two major phases of its food conservation drive which are under fire.

They are:

▶The proposed 60-day shutdown of the distilling industry, which is scheduled to start at midnight Saturday and which the AFL Distillery workers are seeking to block.

▶The appeal to eat no poultry on Thursdays, which poultrymen have attacked as unnecessary and inadvisable in view of the large flocks of poultry and cold storage birds on hand.

There was no indication when committee Chairman Charles Luckman would announce a final decision on either.

He appealed, meanwhile, for the support of every American in the campaign to save 100,000,000 bushels of grain for western Europe.

In a nationwide broadcast yesterday Luckman asked mayors of cities all over the country to set up local conservation committees.

Cities above 100,000 population in the United States have 29 per cent of the motor vehicles in the country.

MULE BALKS, WAGON WRECKED. Kate, a mighty stubborn animal according to her owner, Robert Harris, a Negro, stands complacently near the wreckage of the wagon she was pulling, when it was demolished at a railroad crossing in Birmingham, Ala., by a Frisco freight—when Kate balked in the wrong place and at the wrong time. Harris had a leg injured in the accident; his mother and two brothers jumped clear.

Reach Truce in Galion Strike

while awaiting the day shift to come off the job.

At quitting time, workers in the plant were seen to close the windows and make general preparations for leaving but they did not come out. No attempt was made to leave the plant or even to go to the parking lot inside the gates where more than 100 cars were parked.

As the clamor and confusion in the streets continued to grow, a pumper from the Galion fire department arrived and took up a position in an alley across from the main gate, shortly after 4:30 p. m. Fully manned, the fire truck remained on hand for more than an hour before returning to the fire station.

As darkness grew no attempt was made to turn on lights inside the plant and workers, a number of them frightened women, waited in the dusk as from outside the gates stones began to spatter against the plant and crash through windows, many of them replaced only a week or so ago after the previous flare-up.

In the neighborhood of 6 p. m. personnel manager Alan Ryon made his way out to the main gate and calling for police, asked that an ambulance be rushed to the plant as there were people ill inside.

Three Taken Out

In the next hour three company employes, two women and a man were taken out on stretchers, one a heart attack victim in serious condition. First removed was Gertrude Halloran of Crestline, treated at City hospital and released. Second was Charles Ott, about 60, who was said to have suffered a heart attack and was taken to the office of a Galion physician. Also taken out on a stretcher was Mrs. Carrie Darling, plant nurse, who was removed to City hospital where she is reported to be in serious condition today.

Stoning of the plant continued throughout the evening and was marked by the arrest of two persons taken to the police station and held until 1:30 a. m. before being released. They were not booked.

Police officers were said to have nabbed them in the act of hurling stones at the plant, catching them only after a chase that led into a private home near the plant and a chase around the dining room table. The home invaded by the unwelcome guests was that of Fred D. Ritchie.

Amid the confusion during the early evening when stones were being hurled at the plant, a shot was fired, throwing the crowd into additional turmoil. The shot was claimed by Edward Duck, UAW organizer, to have been fired inside the gates. It came about the time police were going after the men they saw throwing stones, it was said.

Take Gun from Woman

A second instance of the display of firearms resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Martha McManes Seevers, about 25, of Galion. She was arrested early in the evening and booked on a gun carrying charge. Duck, who apparently was in the midst of the night's activities reported her as saying "I've got a husband in here and I'm going to get him out." She was detained on complaint of the UAW.

While the crowd surged back and forth before the plant, the city hall downtown was the scene of feverish activity as attempts were made to restore peace and prevent the situation from getting entirely out of control.

A virtually unbroken series of conferences extended throughout the evening and were finally terminated after midnight by the announcement that a truce had been agreed on by the North company and the UAW.

Attending the series of meetings were the Galion clergy, Mayor William Amann, president of Council Otto Pfeifer, Police Chief James L. Walker, Sheriff Ralph Schreck and Col. P. T. Graham, Ohio National Guard staff officer from Columbus.

Colonel Graham acted for Governor Thomas J. Herbert, who had been asked earlier in the afternoon to act in the serious situation. Gov. Herbert did not act on the Galion city request to call out the National Guard.

Both company and union officials were at city hall at various times during the evening. UAW Regional Director Walter Murphy of Toledo and Duck figured in the evening parleys. Robert Jamison, company attorney, also was reported to have arrived from Cleveland.

Issues Statement

Shortly after 1 a. m., Col. Graham made the following announcement:

"At a meeting of representatives from the company and union together with myself, it was agreed to close the plant and release persons inside and to arrange for a meeting at 11 a. m. Monday in City Hall to further discuss plans."

Following the announcement, Duck and other UAW leaders called a meeting of union members at the Erie depot yard near the plant. There were more than 200 persons congregated around the regional director as he said, "The company has agreed to talk to us. That's more than they would do before. The plant will be closed until Monday. It accomplishes our purpose."

"Those who don't live here, please leave town and leave quietly—I'm not kidding," he added.

The union followers then began to drift away from the plant and under the eyes of the police and sheriff's officials, some 375 tired hungry and jittery workers trooped out of the plant gates and returned home to anxiously awaiting families.

The plant is calm today but bearing evidence of last night's violence with shattered window panes and rubble scattered in the grounds. Vice President R. K. McBerty asked for an estimate of last night's damage to windows, replied wearily that he hadn't been informed and didn't care.

Police roused Edward Duck out of bed early this morning when an estimated 400 men entered town and thought by police to be union sympathizers from Toledo. Duck conferred with them briefly and they returned home.

Sen. Taft Will Announce Candidacy, Say Friends

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23—Friends said today that Senator Robert A. Taft will formally announce his active candidacy tomorrow for the Republican presidential nomination.

This will place the 58-year-old Ohioan who heads his party's policy committee in the senate in a race that already has drawn the formal entry of former Gov. Harold E. Stassen of Minnesota and probably will have several other participants, including Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York.

Taft's announcement will be made in a letter to the Ohio state Republican committee. It will put him in a position to begin an active drive for the 547 delegates necessary to win the nomination at next June's G.O.P. convention in Philadelphia.

BRITAIN PLANS DEADLINE FOR LEAVING PALESTINE

By The Associated Press

LONDON, Oct. 23—Britain plans to withdraw her troops and administration from Palestine by March of 1948 "at the very latest" if the United Nations fails to settle the Holy Land problem, an authoritative informant said today.

Britain a week ago served a second notice on the United Nations that she would give up her League of Nations mandate in the Holy Land, but set no date for withdrawal.

Britain urged the UN not to delay "unduly" in reaching a final decision on the future of Palestine.

Cleveland Housewife Chased by Squirrel

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23—Indignant Mrs. Chester A. Goosen complained today that police had refused her protection against a bushy-tailed squirrel which she said chased her and her two Chihuahua dogs up on a neighbor's porch.

The squirrel continued to advance even in the face of a rolled-up newspaper and she was forced to take refuge in the home, she said.

She declared police in the Lakewood suburb only scoffed at the report and "told me I must have done something" to anger the animal.

VOTERS TO ACT ON 'GAS TAXES'

Amendment to Constitution Would Freeze Funds for Road Purposes.

By International News Service

COLUMBUS, Oct. 23—Three of the four proposed constitutional amendments before Ohio voters at the Nov. 4 election have been placed there by a three-fifths vote of the Ohio legislature.

The fourth—to earmark all gas and fuel tax and auto license revenues exclusively for street and highway purposes—was placed on the ballot because its backers went to the trouble to get nearly a quarter of a million signatures of qualified voters to put it there.

The other three amendments call for a 300-million-dollar soldier bonus, to add the governor and state treasurer to the sinking fund commissioners who will administer it, (discussed in yesterday's article in The Star) and to increase the terms of probate judges from four to six years.

So-called "gas taxes" collected by Ohio now fall into two categories—the three-cent "gas tax" which already is earmarked by legislative decision for highway purposes, and the one-cent "liquid fuel tax" which produces 15 millions a year for the general revenue fund.

Backers of the proposed constitutional amendment — the Ohio committee for better roads and streets—want to make sure that all revenue derived from auto license fees or gas taxes go for road purposes and road purposes alone.

They point out that there is no guarantee now that some future legislature, hard-pressed for funds to meet some other demand, might not divert the three-cent gas tax to general revenue purposes also and allow highway administration to struggle along as best it can. Their amendment would furnish such a guarantee.

The opposition, led by Governor Herbert, believes that such earmarking would lead to "hamstringing" the legislature by imposing strict limits on the uses to which it could put tax-raised money.

They also claim that there are times when the moneys derived from automotive sources exceed the needs of highways and streets.

Opponents will admit that now is not one of those times. But they point out also that the legislature recognized such a situation when it appropriated 20 millions to the highway department and an additional eight millions to the subdivisions for street and highway purposes.

Thus, although currently the general revenue fund gets 30 millions in the two years of the biennium from the one-cent liquid fuel tax, it is returning 28 millions of it directly for the purpose which the amendment's backers want it frozen.

If the amendment is adpoted, there is considerable doubt, even among the so-called experts, just what effect it will have on the present tax when the amendment becomes effective Jan. 1.

One school of thought holds that the tax itself will lapse, since it now is a tax to raise funds for the general revenue fund and that hence it would pass out of existence when such a tax became unconstitutional.

The other school, however, believes that the tax would continue to be collected, but that the proceeds would be "frozen" until such time as the legislature could meet and appropriate them for some street or highway purpose.

The fourth amendment to increase the terms of probate judges from four to six years is backed by local Bar associations throughout the state, on the ground that such judges are entitled to the same six-year tenure that the other jurists enjoy. Placing the proposal on the ballot climaxes a fight begun back in 1933.

In Loving Memory
★Of my dear husband, Carleton McAdams, who passed away two years ago, Oct. 23, 1945.

This day brings sad memories
Of my loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him each day
Are the ones who loved him best.
No one knows the silent heartaches,
Only those who lost can tell
Of the grief I bear in silence
For the one I loved so well.
Friends may think that I forget him
When they see me smile,
But little do they know the sorrow
That is hid behind a smile.

Sadly missed by wife,
Mrs. Mabel McAdams.

Love's Perilous Path

By ADELE GARRISON

THE exuberance of Georges, ex-[illegible]al king of Trees, always [illegible]ses me.

[illegible]t have expected his rese-[illegible] my impetuous offer of aid [illegible] matrimonial aspirations, I [illegible] myself cressly, when, at my [illegible]ction that Olina, exiled [illegible]ess of Transvania, might [illegible] to the Sag Harbor farm-[illegible] he darted across the room [illegible] fell on his knees beside [illegible] and seizing my hands, covered [illegible]em with kisses.

[illegible]y came to my aid in char-[illegible]le fashion.

[illegible]ning a bit boisterously, he [illegible] his hands beneath the [illegible]boy's armpits and lifted [illegible] his feet.

[illegible]ter save those endearments [illegible] your liege lady when you see [illegible]en," he advised nonchalantly. "My spouse is too sedate for such flamboyant adulation. It fusses her, she says, but confidentially" —he lowered his voice and winked at Georges—"I'm afraid it will go to her head and she'll expect me to put on the same kind of a show, and then where would I be? I'd have to take lessons of you for a year, and then I wouldn't make the grade."

For a flashing instant, the eyes of the exiled king were filled with royal rage, and I think if his arms had been free, he would have struck out wildly at Dicky.

Then commonsense, and his innate good humor, came to his aid, and he managed a laugh also. But it was not a particularly easy one, although it served the purpose of giving Harry and Lillian the chance to give partial vent to their own mirth, which, I guessed, was fairly choking them.

But I was not in a laughing mood, and when I saw my father's eyes, I realized that resentment of Georges' antics was strong within him. I drew a sharp breath of relief, however, as he gave me the ghost of a smile. He did not resent my interruption, nor my thoughtless spur-of-the-moment suggestion of Olina's meeting Georges and marrying him at the farmhouse.

"Do you know, Daughter" he said after a second, "I think you have hit upon an excellent idea, provided the Princess Olina and her family agree to your suggestion."

I took pity on Georges, standing a bit discomfitted at Dicky's side and patently wondering what might be the reaction of Philip and Olga Veritzen to his wish. He had no doubt of Olina, I was sure.

Can Answer for Olina

"I know I can answer for Olina," I said. "She will be glad to share any danger, and hardship with her betrothed. As for her mother and her stepfather, will I have time to talk to them."

"Yes, indeed," my father said. "I cannot make arrangements for you to go to Sag Harbor safely until tomorrow night. Georges must stay here at the Underwoods until then, and not show his face, even altered as it is, outside the door."

"Then," I said—I was afraid too confidently— "I will guarantee to get Olina's parents into a favorable mood for giving their consent to the wedding."

"They already have given their consent to our marriage," Georges put in hastily.

"Yes," Lillian commented, and I knew she thought a bit of deflation would do confident Georges no harm, "but not such a secret, hole-in-the-wall wedding as this must be, with no member of her family present."

"Do you know," my father said thoughtfully, "I believe that could be arranged. To have her family present, I mean."

We all looked at him hopefully, and I told myself that Georges, at least, had the facial expression of a small boy watching a conjurer bring a rabbit out of a hat. But, mercifully, he kept silent, as did the rest of us. My father plainly was not in the mood for interruptions.

"Sometimes the best camouflage is something approaching the truth," my father said a bit sententiously. "Oh, I do not mean that there should be any hint of a wedding, but what do you think of this plan?"

He put his fingertips together in the fashion we all knew so well and began to speak slowly, stressfully.

"Margaret will go out with Georges and 'K' tomorrow night, secretly and heavily guarded. My chief need of her going is to have her deal with our temperamental Katie, and see that she knows just what is expected of her.

"Before my daughter's suggestion," he went on, "I expected to have her remain there for a few days. But I am sure that when she has put Katie in a receptive mood" —his lips twitched ever so slightly, and the rest of us smiled our appreciation of our housekeeper's vagaries — "she will be able to come back the next night, also secretly and heavily guarded, leaving Georges and 'K' at the farmhouse, with no one suspecting their sojourn there.

"Then," he went on, "it might be well to manage an item in the newspapers to the effect that the Richard Grahams were entertaining the Philip Veritzens at a house party at their Sag Harbor home. It could be an extended house party, with you and Richard—and, yes, I think Faith, too; you could not leave her behind at the hotel, even with Katharine there—and with Olga, Olina and Philip. The item might contain a reference to the play you are writing for Philip's production, and it would be most natural for you to be down there for several days.

"There would have to be a great deal of secrecy about the marriage, for neither Georges' presence nor 'K's' could be known, but a pretty ceremony and the usual decorations and supper could be managed with the help of Katie and the Ticers, I am sure. Of course you all would have to stay down there until Georges is called away, but I would put my wing at the disposal of the honeymooners, and they would have as much privacy, or more, as they would at a hotel. What do you think of the plan?"

"It is perfect," I told him, and Georges echoed: "Perfect."

Then he added a question.

"But you have not mentioned Noel—and Mary Veritzen," he said. "Would they not be of the party?"

In Plain Words

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

SECRETARY of State Marshall has been given very sympathetic treatment by the American press.

He was treated that way during the war when he did a brilliant job as chief of the Army staff.

Generally, he's had the same treatment since becoming secretary of state early this year.

But newsmen who cover the state department feel that Marshall does not "give" very much with information.

James Marlow

His basic schedule calls for a news conference once a week, when he's in town. He's been away often. Frequently when he is here he lets subordinates meet the newsmen for him.

One state department reporter says: "Marshall has met the newsmen less than any secretary of state of recent history."

Last spring he attended the foreign ministers' conference in Moscow for two months. He had a news conference at the beginning and the end.

Newsmen who covered that conference felt that Marshall didn't say much at either of the two conferences. In between times, they had to get information on the highly important meeting where they could.

Paper Opens Up

This week the Washington Post, an influential morning newspaper here, opened up on Marshall. It took critical cracks at him on these grounds:

That he's not keeping the American people informed on the nugely important events that are daily taking place.

(Last night at Columbia, S. C., James F. Byrnes, who preceded Marshall as secretary of state and held news conferences twice weekly, made a speech in which, among other things, he said:

("I think the people should be given the facts while decisions are in the making in order to form an intelligent conclusion and try to influence the action of their government.

("The people should not be kept in the dark until decisions are made which vitally affect the lives of all the people. Then governments resort to propaganda to justify hateful decisions, and the citizen who disagrees with the decisions is regarded as disloyal.")

The Washington Post tackled Marshall as the result of a talk Marshall made recently at LaFayette college.

In that talk Marshall told his audience that American students are not being taught enough history to know what's going on in the world.

Post Picks It Up

Picking him up there, the Post said of Marshall in an editorial:

"* * * The most persistent criticism that is being made of General Marshall is that he is denying the people acquaintance with the history that is unfolding in his own office. * * *

"In all the history of our times nothing compares in significance to the history of our foreign relations.

"Yet Secretary Marshall has failed to keep the people daily informed of the momentous events in which he is a participant.

"In lecturing the school teachers on their shortcomings, he forgot that he, as secretary of state, ought to be the greatest teacher of history in the land.

"If Secretary Marshall were to examine the history of his own department he would find ample precedent for assuming the role of instructor in current events."

At this point the Post pointed to Secretary of State Charles Evans Hughes who held a daily news conferences back in the early 1920's. Said the Post:

"We cannot help thinking that if Secretary Marshall were to review his information policy in the light of such examples of the principles that stand out from his own speech on the teaching of history, he would relax the restrictions that are now keeping the people ignorant of much that is happening in the world."

POOR TEETH ALIGNMENT MAY CAUSE BAD HEARING

By International News Service

PHILADELPHIA—Persons suffering from poor hearing and ringing in their ears may need a dentist.

According to studies made by Dr. David J. Goodfriend, of the University of Pennsylvania, 40 per cent of all deafness may be traced to dental abnormalities.

Dr. Goodfriend said:

"Anatomical studies show that many abnormalities of the dental bite directly affect the Eustachian tube, which bring about communication between the middle ear and throat."

"In such cases the jawbone, not setting in the correct position because of an imperfect bite, presses against the eustachian tube, partially obstructing it."

Dr. Goodfriend continued:

"Study indicates that proper dental treatment of such cases often brings excellent results, especially in younger patients."

THREE NEW SCOUT TROOPS SPONSORED BY CHURCHES

Three new Boy Scout troops, all sponsored by Marion churches, were organized in meetings held Tuesday night.

Rev. Robert Maugans, pastor of First Memorial Baptist church, spoke briefly on the value of having a troop organized for members of the congregation as well as boys in the neighborhood. Carl and Clyde Rech were chosen as Scoutmaster and assistant Scoutmaster, respectively, for the new unit which will be known as Troop 14. The program, in charge of L. C. Massie, included a discussion on Scouting and showing of a Scout motion picture. Refreshments were served following the meeting.

Plans to form a new troop under the sponsorship of Lee Street Presbyterian church were made with Scott Rider, chairman, announcing that meetings will be held on Mondays at 7:30 p. m. The new unit will be open to boys of the church and the surrounding neighborhood. Scoutmaster for the new unit will be Richard Hogan and assistant Scoutmaster is Warren Beers. The date for the opening meeting and the number of the troop will be announced later.

The first meeting of the troop organized at Primitive Wesley church on North Grand avenue will be Nov. 3. Membership there is open to all boys in the congregation and in the neighborhood who are 12 years of age or over.

drive. He recognized, he said, that the Germans may have misled the American and British officers deliberately, but the incident served to show the accuracy of his Red army officers. He wished, nevertheless, to thank the Americans for this effort to be helpful. On the whole, Stalin's message was more conciliatory than the previous ones and President Roosevelt, on April 11, sent Stalin a message saying he was glad the unfortunate incident was now over.

Agreement on Surrender

Meanwhile, the negotiations with the Germans had been postponed for other reasons and in the interim the combined chiefs of staff made a proposal that was accepted by the Soviet military leaders. It provided that each of the three powers should observe all surrender negotiations, but that a surrender on any one front would not be delayed because of the absence of any one of the powers.

Nevertheless, Stalin's charges and his apparent willingness to believe we had secretly concluded a separate peace, coupled with the exceedingly objectionable language of at least one of his messages, had greatly offended Mr. Roosevelt. And when President Truman assumed office and read these messages he fully sympathized with the view and attitude of President Roosevelt.

On the same day that President Roosevelt received his last message from Stalin, he received one from Prime Minister Churchill. It stated that he had to make a statement in the house of commons within a few days, dealing primarily with Poland but necessarily requiring a discussion of Russian relations. He was exceedingly anxious not to say anything that would affect adversely the military situation at that critical hour and he asked President Roosevelt for advice.

Message as Death Neared

Although the president by that time was greatly disappointed by the Soviet attitude, he was philosophical about it. He had reached the conclusion—which I was to reach months later—that there is no easy formula to guide one in getting along with the Soviets. Thus, on April 12, an hour before he died, President Roosevelt, replying to the prime minister's request for advice about his speech to commons, sent this message:

I would minimize the general Soviet problem as much as possible because these problems, in one form or another, seem to arise every day and most of them straighten out as in the case of the Bern meeting.

We must be firm, however, and our course thus far is correct.

The message was sent from Warm Spring and bears all the earmarks of having been written by the president himself. The advice is as good today as it was on the day it was written.

It is idle to speculate on what the course of history would have been had President Roosevelt lived, but these messages dispose of the legend that our relations with the Soviet Union began to deteriorate only after his death.

He Liked Churchill

The president's deliberate efforts to cultivate the good will of Marshal Stalin have led some observers to underestimate the strength of his affection and admiration for Mr. Churchill. It was a feeling that was genuine and that was cordially reciprocated. It was the kind of friendship that permitted frankness in their conversations with each other and about each other.

Whenever Mr. Churchill was a guest at the White House, the president would complain to those of us who had to carry on business with him that Mr. Churchill had kept him up late. But even as he complained about his guest, it was clear that the president had greatly enjoyed the conversation of the previous evening. Once at Yalta, when we were preparing for dinner at the end of a long session, the president grumbled that the lengthy session was "Winston's fault because he had made too many speeches."

"Yes, he did," I replied, "but they were good speeches."

The president chuckled and replied: —

"Winston doesn't make any other kind."

It is true, if my observations at Yalta provide a typical example, that the president used all his charm and his genius for promoting human relationships to make the Big Three meetings harmonious. The value of these qualities in those early days cannot be overestimated. But the Soviet leaders did overestimate the ultimate extent of the president's generosity and his willingness to compromise on principles.

On July 3, 1945, Mr. Byrnes was sworn in as secretary of state on the rose-covered East portico of the White House. Three nights later, he traveled with President Truman to Newport News, where the Augusta was waiting to take them to Europe, to Potsdam and the first step down the long road to peace. They landed at Antwerp on July 15. The next installment of "Speaking Frankly," to be published tomorrow, describes the beginnings of the Potsdam conference.

Caledonia Church Given Set of Chimes

A set of chimes, given the Caledonia Church of Christ in memory of Mrs. Lillie Wirick Hipsher, will be dedicated Sunday at a special service and dedication recital by a New York musician at 2:30 p. m. The chimes, played from the organ keyboard, were purchased for the church by Oren Hipsher, husband, and Forest Hipsher and Miles Hipsher of Indianapolis, Ind., sons of Mrs. Hipsher.

Included on the program will be prelude, "Dialogue," Mrs. Reta Grace Mason; hymn by the congregation; invocation; presentation, Forest Hipsher; acceptance, Rev. Melvin Keeran, pastor; duet, "Something for Thee," Miss Evelyn Hipsher and Lloyd Savage; prayer of dedication, Rev. R. F. Strickler, pastor of the Kirkpatrick Church of Christ; and dedication recital. Roy Claire, organist of Eggertsville, N. Y., will play "Largo in G," Handel; "Cantilene Religieuse," Dubois; "Chorale: Lord Jesus Christ, Thou Prince of Peace," Bach; a vocal solo will be by Miss Evelyn Hipsher accompanied by Miss Alice Garton, and Mr. Claire will conclude with "La Harpe Celeste," Grey, "Fairest Lord Jesus," Edmenson, and "Scherzo," Rogers. Following benediction, a quarter hour recital will be broadcast over the amplifying system.

C. OF C. PERSONNEL CLUB MEETS AT MANOR HOUSE

The Chamber of Commerce Personnel club held a luncheon meeting at the Manor House Wednesday noon with about 22 personnel directors attending.

Phillip Brown of the Baker Wood Preserving Co., chairman of the club, led the meeting.

H. H. Douthitt, personal director of the Marion Power Shovel Co. and vice chairman of the National Association of Personnel Directors, extended an invitation to the club to attend a meeting of the national association in Chicago on Nov. 3-5. Several club members indicated they might attend the Chicago meeting.

Edward J. Baxton, director of industrial relations of the Pollak Steel Co., described in detail his company's educational and training program.

Thad Kuenzli, director of industrial relations of the Huber Manufacturing company, described an Ohio state employment department aptitude test given Huber employes. Several members of the personnel club decided to investigate the possibilities of using the tests in their companies.

FALL LEAF BURNING HAS FIRE DANGER

Residents Warned To Watch Blaze To Prevent Injury.

This is one of a series of fire prevention hints prepared by members of the fire prevention committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce for publication in The Star.

Since fire prevention should not only be observed during Fire Prevention Week which just passed, the fire prevention committee of the Marion Chamber of Commerce brings you another message.

At this time of year the yards are being cleaned up which includes raking and burning of leaves. Adults should watch these fires until they are completely out so that children aren't injured and to prevent possible property loss. Also watch those grass fires.

For those homes which to date have not had their furnaces inspected—call your furnace dealer today as we won't have many more warm days before King Winter sets in. A bad furnace or one that needs service can create a fire.

Be "fire prevention minded" 365 days a year.

The five stars in the flag of the Mayor of New York City represent the city's five boroughs.

Path Is Smoother As City's Sidewalk Program Bears Fruit

By REX BRUGLER

Anyone who lives in or around Marion that has walked the city streets the last few years may have oftentimes wondered whether the paths they have trod were supposed to be sidewalks or just beaten trails. More and more every year the doubt has been growing stronger. Here and there at almost regular intervals are pools of water, sometimes "rivers" are coursing your path. Slopes and hills predominate and impede your course, worn out in a smooth concave section of the pavement by hundreds of thousands of feet trodding upon the surface for nearly 50 years.

The pavements zig-zag, leaving one dizzy and sometimes hesitant as to his true course.

But the days of the blazed trail are over now. The good news has finally arrived. E. O. Uncapher, safety-service director, has announced today that the reconstruction and repair work, begun in August on the city streets by the property owners themselves, was progressing slowly but steadily along and was nearing completion.

Action by Council

A resolution, sponsored by the city administration and passed by the council last July 6, provides that the property owners be notified to repair or construct their walks within a reasonable length of time after notification, or the work shall be done by the city and the cost certified to the county auditor who shall collect it with taxes.

Fifty-seven property owners have been notified. Of that number sixteen have taken the resolution to heart and did as bidden. The rest have all reported that as soon as they can get the labor and materials they will begin construction work.

Mr. Uncapher commented on this by saying that the safety department was allowing plenty of time in the reasonable length specified in the resolution, for the owners to complete their work before the city took over, for the department understood that due to the extensive building program now in progress throughout Marion it was virtually impossible to get laborers and materials for the much needed work.

Business District Improved

Mr. Uncapher also said that of the 16 completions he was especially proud of that section in the business district of Marion, extending between Mill street and the first alley south of Church street, that had all been rebuilt or repaired. Nine of fifteen owners between Orchard street and the first alley east of State street have complied with council's wishes. One now in progress and soon to be finished is at the Shuler Cigar Store on the corner of Main and Center streets.

In areas throughout virtually the whole city, new sidewalks will be laid.

Five designated spots are on Park boulevard, 4 on McKinley street, 6 on Henry street, 2 on Logan street, 3 on Davids street, 1 on Senate street, 1 on Thompson street, 7 on Council street, 1 on South Prospect street and 1 on Scranton avenue. Mr. Uncapher said that the probable cost to the property owners would be "at a rough guess, approximately $7,000." At a rough guess, it's probably worth it to both the city of Marion and its guests.

A new helium-oxygen mixture now enables deep-sea divers to descend to greater depths than ever before and to stay under water longer.

don't DO that!

STAY AT HOME. . . . If you have a bad cold. You'll get well sooner—and also avoid spreading germs at the office.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

"Take Pen in Hand"

This column has been running for so long that its readers, in towns like ours all over the country, are beginning to "take pen in hand" and write us what they think.

Some of them take me over the coals for what I say—like the column I ran on planting alfalfa. Others write, "I liked your column yesterday, but...." All of them have different points of view.

From where I sit, that's the way it should be. Everybody's entitled to an opinion—and it's those very differences, and friendly criticism, that make for tolerance and better understanding—whether it's ideas on planting alfalfa or choosing between beer and cider.

The more folks air their differences right out in public, with a neighborly respect for the other person's liberties and point of view, the closer we are to the American principle of individual freedom—whether it's in a choice of crops or beverages.

Truman Cuts Sentence of GI's in Jap Slayings

By The Associated Press

TOKYO, Oct. 23—Far East Air Force headquarters said today President Truman had commuted to life imprisonment the death sentence imposed last spring on Pfc. Joe J. Havalda of Owosso, Mich., found guilty of murder in a case involved the slaying of five Japanese.

Four other enlisted men convicted with Havalda won commutation of life terms to 30 years by the war department. They are Cpl. George Craig, Winchester, O., Cpl. Willard Grooms, Seaman, O.; Pfc. R. W. Harper, Stab, Ky., and Pvt. Edward W. Smith, Savannah.

BURIAL SPACE NEEDED

By The Associated Press

CAIRO, Oct. 23 — Egyptian health authorities fighting desperately to break the back of a cholera plague which has taken 3,397 lives in the Nile valley since it started 29 days ago, faced a new problem today — a shortage of burial space. It often has been necessary to place as many as 10 bodies in one tomb. From corpses come some of the greatest dangers of infection, the health authorities believe.

WAR DEAD

The honor guards who accompanied the caskets here, First Lt. Gordon G. Michael and Glenn S. Garner, chief machinist's mate, will also be present for the ceremonies.

Friends may call at the Merle H. Hughes mortuary on Mt. Vernon tonight to pay respects to the families.

As a memorial tribute, the flag before the county honor roll at the courthouse is flying at half staff and a wreath has been placed before the honor roll.

Flags To Be Flown

Flags in the downtown district are to be flown Friday, and all business operation is to be suspended for five minutes Friday from 2:30 to 2:35 p. m. During this time, the courthouse bell will toll and the Marion Power Shovel Co. and the Huber Mfg. Co. whistles will blow at 2:30 and again at 2:35 to designate the five-minute period.

Members of Marion Camp No 32, United Spanish War Veterans will meet at the Merle H. Hughes mortuary to attend the services of Lt. Sweney and Carpenter's Mate Howard, officers of the organization announced today. The veterans will attend the services in a body.

COAL DUMPER READIED

Will Johnny Be Good or Bad?

How many Mothers have asked themselves this question?

Johnny will have a harder time being good than we ever did because temptation was never greater—and crime amongst teen-ages is reaching an all time high. It's easy these days for youngsters to get into serious trouble. That's expensive for us and a tragedy to their home.

WHEN YOU THINK OF THESE THINGS THANK GOD FOR OUR COMMUNITY FUND CHARACTER BUILDING AGENCIES

The Salvation Army, Girl Scouts, YMCA, Y-teens and Boy Scouts are standing by—ready to keep our youngsters busy and happy and learning while they grow.

Thats why it will pay you well to buy lots of shares in Marion's future—even if it pinches your budget. Everyone who thinks about it will do the same.

BUY SHARES---LOTS OF THEM IN MARION'S FUTURE. EVERYBODY BUYS---EVERYBODY GAINS

P.S. You get your shares at once. You can pay as convenient

Marion Soldier Calls Mother from Prague

T/5 Merle W. Chapman, stationed with the U. S. Army at Landshut, Germany, called his mother, Mrs. Ruth Young of 415 North State street, Sunday from Prague, Czechoslovakia, where he is spending a 30-day furlough.

The call came through at 10 a. m., which was 4 p. m. T/5 Chapman's time overseas. Mrs Young said they talked for about five or six minutes, and that he said he was well and enjoying his furlough. Mrs. Young also said "the connection was very clear, almost as if he were in the same room with me."

T/5 Chapman, who is serving with the Constabulatory Squadron in Germany, has been in the Army nearly two years, having enlisted for a three-year period. He has been overseas 20 months of that time.

4 YOUTHS FINED FOR OPENING HYDRANTS

Bucyrians Arrested After Tour of Three Towns.

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, Oct. 23—Four Bucyrus youths were fined a total of $246 Tuesday when they were arraigned before the mayors of Nevada, New Washington, and Attica, on charge of vandalism in connection with opening fire hydrants in the three villages. They termed their acts Halloween pranks. The youths, Forrest White, 18, Edward Heath, 20, John Armstrong, 19, and Carl Spaid, 19, all of Bucyrus were arrested over the weekend after investigation by Deputy Jacobs of the sheriff's office. The date of their tour through the towns was Oct. 7.

Jacobs and Sheriff Schreck said that the boys, riding in White's car, journeyed to each city in turn and opened a total of 12 hydrants with a pipe wrench. Suspicion was first aroused when the marshal of New Washington noticed that their rear license plate was covered with a cloth. The marshal gave chase but was unable to catch them. It was not until a few days later that a chance remark was overheard by Jacobs and upon investigation the youths were later arrested and readily admitted being implicated, the officers said.

H. MAX GOOD TO SPEAK AT SERVICES SATURDAY

Speaker at the Marion Youth for Christ service Saturday night at the Masonic hall will be H. Max Good of Columbus, founder of Soul's Harbor there and director of the radio broadcast, "Wings of Prayer." The organization which he founded in 1936 has grown steadily, and Sunday attendance at Soul's Harbor approximates 1,400 weekly to hear noted evangelists, teachers and Gospel expositors invited to take part on the program. Recently a new endeavor, publication of a religious monthly magazine, "The Anchor," was launched by Mr. Good. He has been characterized as "a young man with a real message of salvation, the means of winning many to Christ." In charge of the service here will be Dr. C. E. Hershey, Marion Youth for Christ director.

Quick Dinners for Two

PORK CHOPS . . . With pineapple and sweet potato slices.

By CHARLOTTE ADAMS
Associated Press Food Editor

When you want to prepare a quick dinner for two people your main concern is the main course. If you want soup you can make an excellent one from a can, or from combining two cans of different varieties. Here are some suggestions for dinner-for-two-entrees which require very little preparation time.

Pork Chops

2 thick pork chops, 2 tablespoons butter or vitaminized margarine, 1 large sweet potato, 2 large slices pineapple, 6 large prunes (optional), ½ cup pineapple juice.

Brown pork chops in butter or margarine. Sprinkle with salt. Peel sweet potato, cut in half and place a half over each chop. Remove pits from prunes and add them and pineapple slices to meat. Pour pineapple juice over all. Cover and simmer 35-40 minutes.

Canned goods and quick-frozen foods are your best friends when you're a quick-cooker-for-two. Here are some suggestions for entrees involving canned goods.

Mushroom Surprise

1 4-ounce can sliced mushrooms, 1 8-ounce can peas, milk, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 3 tablespoons flour, 2 tablespoons pimiento strips, ¼ teaspoon salt, few grains cayenne.

Drain the liquid from mushrooms and peas and combine it with enough milk to make 1½ cups liquid. Cook the mushrooms in butter until lightly browned. Blend in flour. Add liquid. Cook until thickened, stirring constantly. Add peas, pimineto, salt and cayenne. Heat and serve on toast points.

Corned Beef and Asparagus

1 12-ounce can corned beef, 1 teaspoon prepared horseradish, 1 pound can asparagus tips, 1 8-ounce can tomato sauce, 2 tablespoons grated cheese.

Cut two ½ inch slices of corned beef. Arrange in a shallow well-greased baking pan and spread with horseradish. Arrange four asparagus tips lengthwise on each beef slice. Cover with ½ of the can of tomato sauce, allowing the ends of the asparagus to show. Sprinkle with cheese and bake in a moderately hot oven (400 degrees) about 20 minutes.

Note: The remaining meat can be used for sandwiches and the remaining asparagus in a salad for the next day's lunch. The remaining tomato sauce will be ready for use in a casserole dish the following evening.

Lions Club Bazaar To Be Held Nov. 20 to 22

Plans are under way by members of the Marion Lions club for the annual bazaar to be held Nov. 20-21-22 in the Junior Fair fairgrounds. Present plans are to make the bazaar, which is a club charity project, "bigger and better" than those held in past years.

The bazaar is held annually by the club to raise funds for its sight conservation project in the city, especially among the children, and for various other community projects.

Tickets for the bazaar are to go on sale Monday, Oct. 27, and will be available from any club member. John Peacock and Harry Seiter are serving as co-chairman for the affair, with Earl Andrews as publicity chairman.

Ashland-Bound Presidents To Meet High Scoring A's

The Harding football team and a large delegation of Harding fans leave tonight for Ashland where the Presidents will try to add the Ashland A's to their string of five straight victims

The Presidents have as good a chance this year to avenge Ashland's 12-7 last-minute win over them last year as they probably ever will have This year's Prexy squad is smooth, aggressive, powerful

Even at that, the Ashland team is no soft touch for the Presidents They've also won five and lost one Their single loss was a 20-6 count to the state's fifth best high school eleven, Fremont Ross

Outscore Opponents

They've scored an average 21 7 points per game while holding their opponents to an average 8 8 points. They've stopped Willard, Canton Townsnip, Sandusky, Shelby and Wooster

They have a dash man at right halfback, Jesse Poorbaugh, who runs the 100 in 10 1 seconds and sprinted for two touchdowns last week as Ashland beat Wooster, 26-13 Poorbaugh entered the Wooster game as a substitute but will probably start against Harding tonight

The Ashland team is perhaps a shade heavier than the Prexies, but doesn't have the reserve strength of Harding. Last week Ashland Coach C E Taylor used but six substitutes, four of them backs

Punt Specialist

Ashland's fullback, Dick Hurst, besides plunging for the A's, is their conversion and punt specialist. He kicked two extra points for Ashland last week.

Prexy right end Jack Bishop, still on the injured list with a bad knee, may not be able to start tonight Clarence Smith, although nursing a charley-horse, probably will

GRID YANKS SIGN STAR

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Oct 23—The New York Yankees of the All America football conference today boasted added offensive strength with the signing of Bill Dutton, former star with the University of Pittsburgh and the Pittsburgh Steelers of the National league

BUCKS PLAN TRICKS TO USE ON PANTHERS

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Oct 23—Ohio State's Buckeyes had some new offensive tricks up their sleeves today as Coach Wes Fesler keyed them for Saturday's clash with the Pittsburgh Panthers.

Fesler, who coached the Panthers last season, said many Pittsburgh players knew his signals perfectly and that he has retained some of the offensive and defensive strategy used there

To offset any Panther's long memory, plays not in the 1946 Pittsburgh book were given the Buckeyes yesterday when Fesler pushed them through a second day of grueling scrimmage

Unlike Tuesday's workout which sidelined several players with injuries, no one was hurt

Fullback Joe Whisler, who injured a knee Tuesday, may be unable to play Saturday Fullback Chuck Renner, guard Tom Snyder, and tackle Jack Jennings also remained on the sidelines

Jim Clark, who has been starting at left halfback, moved back to the third string for offensive play when Bob Brugge and Rod Swinehart returned to the squad. Clark still rates first call on defense

Fesler planned only dummy work and running drills for today and tomorrow The Bucks will workout at Pitt stadium tomorrow, immediately after arriving by plane at Pittsburgh

SCHLAIRET TO SPONSOR FORMER Y-INDUS TEAM

Former members of the Y-Indus club basketball team have a new sponsor, according to Kenneth Sommerlot, football coach at Harding High school and athletic director for the club Schlairet Transfer, which recently won the little world series, has taken over the reins as sponsor and hereafter the team shall be known as the Schlairet Transfer Schlairet will furnish ten new suits and a lot of fire and determination in the coming basketball season Mr Sommerlot also said that the first meeting of the new group will be held this Friday night at the Y M C A.

Mississippi and Arkansas played a football game in 1914 that still is claimed as a victory by both teams—Mississippi by 13-7 and Arkansas at 1-0

HARDING HIGH SCHOOL GRID SQUAD

Pictured above is the 1947 edition of the Harding football squad which has won the last five games and is gunning tonight for the sixth consecutive victory in a game at Ashland.

The Prexies dropped their opener to Fostoria, 12-0, then defeated Columbus South, 19-0, Tiffin Columbia, 25-0, Uhrichsville, 32-0, Lima South, 14-0, and Findlay, 20-6.

BIG NINE FANS EYE ILLINOIS-PURDUE TILT

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct 23—Three conference games and a trio of non-league contests give the Big Nine football program a full schedule Saturday.

The Illinois-Purdue encounter is shaping up as the chief attraction although the Michigan-Minnesota game at Ann Arbor is expected to draw one of the top crowds Both Illinois and Michigan are favorites and victories will set the stage for their contest on Nov. 1.

In the third conference game, Indiana at Northwestern, both teams will be after their first league victory The Wildcats have lost two games and the Hoosiers one.

In non-conference clashes, Iowa travels to South Bend, Ind., for its sixth meeting with Notre Dame, with the Irish favored to even the score at three victories apiece. Marquette, after its disappointing showing against San Francisco last week, invades neighboring Madison for its 23rd intrastate classic with Wisconsin, and Ohio States goes to Pittsburgh.

At LaFayette Saturday Illinois will be looking at much the same offense they faced when they tied Army, 0-0 The Boilermakers' coach, Stu Holcomb, formerly was end coach at West Point and he employs the same "T" as the Cadets.

Since a disappointing 32-14 defeat by Wisconsin, the Boilermakers have whipped Ohio State 24-20, and Boston university, 62-7, on successive weekends

MICHIGAN SET FOR MINNESOTA CLA

By The Associated Press

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Oct A Michigan football juggernaut that hasn't really been tested four runaway victories this season, will be at top strength Saturday's "Little Brown Jug" clash with Minnesota—just case.

Few who saw the Gophers tumble in a 49-13 licking last week at the hands of Illinois believe that Minnesota has the depth to press the Michigan steamroller but the Wolverines won't be caught napping midway of the drive for an undisputed Big Nine title—something they haven't done since Herbert O (Fritz) Crisler came to Michigan as head coach in 1938.

Three-deep in talented material at every backfield post, Michigan has powered its way to 222 points in its four top heavy triumphs over Michigan State, Stanford, Pitt and Northwestern, scoring fewer than 48 points any time out.

To maintain that depth Crisler this week reconverted center Dan Dworsky to the fullback job he held down a year ago, shifting Jack Weisenburger back into the backfield from center to fill sophomore Dick Kenthorn's shoes as third string fullback behind Jack Weisenburger and Tom Peterson Kempthorne hobbling on a lame knee probably won't play against Minnesota

St. Mary To Entertain Richwood Friday

St Mary Irish gridders will make their second appearance at home Friday night in a Mid-State league battle with the Richwood Tigers on the Harding stadium gridiron.

The Irish have never yet come out of a Tiger fray on top, but they've come out even a time or two. Last year they lost, 12-6.

This year the Irish will have more at stake than winning over an old rival for the first time. If they win Friday night, St. Mary will be assured of at least a first place tie in the league race.

Leads League.

St Mary leads the league with two league victories. The Tigers have won one and lost two. The Irish face but one more league opponent after Richwood—the cellar dwellers, Mt. Gilead.

Irish Coach Gene Fetter today announced two changes in the Irish line. He's moved John Granger into Kevin Krigbaum's spot at left guard, and he has assigned Jim MacDonald to replace Tom Werley.

Fetter is expecting to meet a heavier, powerful Richwood squad, and made the line changes to bolster the Irish forward wall. Richwood gains have been made on the ground in past games this season.

Irish Like Airways.

A substantial share of St. Mary gains have been made through the air in games this year—about 32 per cent, in fact. The Irish have gained 752 yards on the ground and 351 through the air so far, and can be expected to continue their aerial attack tomorrow night in Harding stadium.

Only one more home game is booked for the Irish after the Richwood tilt tomorrow. That's their season finale with Mt. Gilead on Nov. 7. They'll play at Sunbury on Oct. 31.

TWO WOMEN GIVEN SUSPENDED SENTENCES

Two women charged with contributing to the neglect of their children by having failed to clean their heads of lice and nits after being warned to do so by school authorities, were sentenced to 30 days in jail by Judge Edward J. Ruzzo Tuesday.

Judge Ruzzo suspended the sentence on condition that the mothers do not permit a recurrence of the situation. In event of a recurrence, a new complaint will be filed and sentence executed, the judge warned.

An additional contempt of court charge arising from the fact that the women failed to appear for the hearing in juvenile court Monday along with five other families cited on similar neglect charges, was dismissed. The women testified that they were unable to read, and did not understand when they were supposed to appear.

Organize Scout Units At LaRue, New Bloomington

Marion Boy Scout officials met Monday night with LaRue council members to discuss a revised Scouting program and with the New Bloomington Scout committee to help organize a new Cub pack there.

A new senior unit is being formed at LaRue under the direction of Walter Lingo. Scoutmaster for the LaRue Boy Scout troop is Charles Haffer assisted by Eugene Duncan. Orville Boblenz of LaRue is in charge of the Cub unit there. Attending the meeting from here were Owen Meddles and Richard Boblenz.

Eldon Jones, assistant field commissioner of cubbing met with the New Bloomington scout committee when it was announced that the pack would be under the new sponsorship of the New Bloomington Methodist church with Melvin Shuck as Cub master. The recently organized New Bloomington troop is commanded by Lester Mowry.

MOULTON WILL SPEAK AT DEMOCRATIC MEETING

Plans for a rally to follow the annual cafeteria supper were made when committeemen and precinct boards met following a meeting of the Marion County Democratic Women's club Monday night in Democratic headquarters. James Lauer, county chairman, presided for the committee meeting and announced that Robert Moulton of Galion, director of commerce under former Governor Frank J. Lausche, will be the speaker.

Mrs. Michael Moran, vice president, presided for the women's meeting at which time arrangements for the cafeteria supper to be held Monday night in Democratic headquarters. As in former years the supper will be open to the public.

Action Packed Card Promised Tonight

Promoter Fishbaugh has lined up a couple of return matches for the Marion wrestling fans that should produce some of the best action seen at the armory in months. The one ninety-minute bout is one that Gorrila Pogi and the Marion fans wanted. It took the promoter two weeks to line it up and when Sammy "Red Devil" Kohen and Gorrila Pogi tangle tonight there won't be any love between the two as their fight started two weeks ago in a battle royal and the fight continued on the floor until they were parted by the law and some of the fans.

The other ninety-minute match should be just as "Hot" for it brings back together Martino Angelo, the bare-footed bully and Capt. Mike Mihalakis, another couple that had trouble in a previous battle royal when they wrestled to a draw. The prelim starts the fireworks at 8:30. Call 2745 after six for your ringside.—Adv.

MOTORCYCLIST HURT IN TRAFFIC MISHAP

Ronald F. McGinty, 25, of 166 Sallentine street, suffered minor cuts and bruises and was removed in a Scharffenberger ambulance to the City hospital for treatment at 3:40 p. m. last night, when the motorcycle he was riding struck a car operated by Floyd Earl Miller, 69, of 440 Van Buren street, and then glanced off and hit a parked auto belonging to A. H. Cooperrider of 256 North State street, city police reported today.

Police said that McGinty, traveling north on North State street, struck the Miller car as it pulled out of an alley into his path. The impact was such that it careened him on into the rear of the Cooperrider auto, parked a few feet up the street. City hospital reported that McGinty's injuries were minor and that he was treated and dismissed. Only damage suffered was to the motorcycle which was badly smashed.

CLASS WILL PROVIDE MUSIC FOR REVIVAL

Wednesday night at Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church, Rev. Lewis H. Naumann of Canton preached on "The Christ of God and Man." Scripture was from the second chapter of Philippians. Elmer Harruff led singing accompanied by Mrs. J. W. Baker. Tonight, special music will be by the Daughters of Calvary class.

Rev. Naumann declared "God is revealed to us in Jesus. Man has spoiled God's creation. That is where sin comes in. If there is no reason why we need to be saved from sin, need to repent, then for me Christianity is a farce. We know in our soul when we have sinned and come short of the Glory of God. I wish each one of us might have more of a burden for lost souls.

There are people who have refused Jesus Christ because they wanted to hang on to some little practice, and because of that they sold their soul for a paltry sum. It is a terrible tragedy to see the light and yet refuse to walk in it.

Wednesday market after 2:30 p. m.: wheat 3.03; No. 3 white oats 1.05.

Range

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 23 — Grains opened lower on the board of trade today. Scattered moisture in Kansas depressed new-crop wheat futures while the government's request for a smaller spring pig crop brought selling into feed grains.

Wheat started 2½ cents lower to ½ higher, December $3.11-3.11½; corn was ¾-1¼ lower, December $2.32-2.32½, and oats were ⅜-⅞ lower, December $1.21½.

PROPAGANDA SEEN. Author of the best-selling novel, "The Fountainhead," Ayn Rand, Russian born writer who came to the U. S. in 1926, is shown as she appeared before the house un-American activities committee in Washington. Testifying to alleged Red infiltration in Hollywood, Miss Rand said she considered the picture, "Song of Russia," to be propaganda in purpose.

LOVE RATED LIGHTLY IN HAPPY WEDLOCK

By International News Service

CHICAGO, Oct. 23—Love was charged today with being vastly overrated as a factor in happy wedlock.

The charge was made by Ernest W. Burgess, University of Chicago sociologist, in a lecture in Chicago.

He declared that two persons who are madly in love have less chance for happiness than those who marry to have someone to talk to over the breakfast table.

Burgess said a survey he made among 526 Illinois couples showed that only 10 couples were well adjusted, 200 reasonably congenial, 135 with few grounds for getting along and eight who were ready to throw things at each other. The others were just average.

The sociologist concluded that marital happiness can be attained if:

Both husband and wife were reared in happy homes.

Both have friends, belong to social organizations, have attended college, have had religious training and live in a house instead of an apartment or merely a room.

The husband has a secure job and makes enough money but not too much.

The wife has worked before marriage, particularly as a teacher or office worker.

P.S. The reader should be advised that Burgess is a bachelor.

ACTRESS TO DIVORCE

By The Associated Press

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 23—Actress Margaret Sullavan, now in England, and her husband, Leland Hayward, an agent, announced their separation and her plans to seek a divorce in a joint statement on a legal firm's letterhead. They were married in 1936 and have three children who had been living with Miss Sullavan in Connecticut.

Father George Joseph Camellus found in a China port in the 18th century a flower which he carried to the Queen of Spain. Since then all such flowers have been called camellias in his honor.

Terry and the Pirates — By George Wunde

HOW ARE THINGS AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE, HOTSHOT? DID YOU SELL MISS O'HARA ON THE IDEA THAT C. C. CHARLES IS A SWELL GUY TO GLADDEN A MAIDEN'S HEART?
NO DEAL... THE LADY ALREADY HAS A GUY...
WHILE YOU WERE STRIKING OUT WITH MISS O'HARA, TERRY CONTACTED YOUR AIR-LINE BASE TO TELL THEM WE'RE ON OUR WAY IN.
MOST STRANGE, MASTER CHOPSTICK. CAPTAIN LEE INFORMS THAT CO-PILOT CHARLES SUFFERS FROM BROKEN MORALE. SUGGESTS PRESENCE OF FOURTEEN BEAUTIFUL BLONDE LADIES AT LANDING AS ONLY KNOWN CURE.
